

Darien Civic Engagement Project Fall 2018 Application Information and Materials

The Eagleton Institute of Politics, under the auspices of the Darien Fund for the US Constitution, Citizenship, and Civic Engagement, invite students to join the Darien Civic Engagement Project (DCEP). A for-credit service learning opportunity for Rutgers students interested in mobilizing and engaging their fellow students. The DCEP offers students an exciting opportunity to put their interest in politics and what they learn in the classroom into action on the Rutgers campus and in local communities.

Through their work for the project, enrolled students will register for 790:250: Special Topics in Political Science: Teaching Citizenship and will receive 1.5 credits for their work in DCEP. Working together with Dr. Elizabeth Matto of the Eagleton Institute of Politics and the DCEP Graduate Coordinator on RU Voting - an initiative designed to register, educate, and mobilize Rutgers students to be politically active. In a selection of discussions led by Professor Matto of the students also will explore the ideals of fostering citizenship in the populace.
